

Ambassadors Network – Colleges and Universities contact

Hi Danny.

As you know, I have been in touch with universities and colleges across Scotland to advise them of the Ambassadors Network. My email asked for details on potential ways for the Network to participate in career events and other outreach activities.

I attach the responses I have received which are relevant. I hope the network can use this information to continue raising awareness of the Network and identify opportunities to get involved in outreach events.

I am happy to discuss if anything isn't clear.

Thank you.
Gordon BSD

Napier University Emma Lismore E.Lismore@napier.ac.uk	All of the university's events are being held virtually for the remainder of this academic year but are generally not holding many. The next main event the university is hosting is in February and March, which is aimed towards graduate opportunities and schemes. Unfortunately, the event slots are full for this event but there may be scope for the ambassadors' network to participate later next year. The university has a jobs portal, but this is only to advertise jobs, so not appropriate for use by the ambassadors' network.	Emma has confirmed other events will take place and are interested in the ambassadors' network being involved. She will reply to BSD once she has confirmed with colleagues on what will take place in 2022.
University of Aberdeen Andrew Mackie careers@abdn.ac.uk	The university would be happy to discuss with Ambassadors Network how they can participate in careers events. BSD have been added as a contact to the university's CareerConnect system where the network can advertise a wide range of opportunities to students and graduates.	Await contact from Jill Rettie, the university's Employer Liaison Officer to discuss further. (BSD will forward on the contact details when received).
